Welcome to Eurajoki!

Eurajoki, with its 9500 inhabitants, is a municipality full of life by the sea in the region of Satakunta. Eurajoki fascinates with its diverse options for tourists. There is a lot to see and experience in Eurajoki; thrilling experiences, interesting attractions and an active life. A unique culture with mansions and a down-to-earth life by the sea is a genuine delight. The fresh sea wind draws you to the bay to enjoy the closeness of the sea. The stunning nature sites invite you to find a refreshed mind with peace and quiet. The local cultural heritage, the history and the cultural destinations unveil an interesting story from the past and the present. The many entertaining events welcome you to the life in Eurajoki. Eurajoki is the perfect size for a day visit, but there is enough to see and experience after that as well. Eurajoki is an entity worth experiencing!

A guide makes the tourist feel like a royal!

It is worth visiting the destinations in Eurajoki together with a professional guide, or you can choose to do a tour at your own pace. The guides of Eurajoki offer professional, diverse, and interesting guiding services. You can book the guide for only one destination or for the whole day. You can choose a more traditional guided tour, a fascinating tour with roleplaying, and even a tour with a theme, or a dramatized version. At the Vuojoki mansion the guides give you a tour by diving into the roles of the 19th century gentry or servants. Examples of the guided theme tours at the mansion are the architecture or the garden of the mansion, the Björkenheim family as the builders of the mansion, and the restauration of the mansion. At the Vålimala croft the visitors, together with the guide and the people of the croft, are put to work as it was done in the 1930's, followed by coffee with traditional crackers, of course.

The Vålimala croft and the Vuojoki mansion also have their own guided tours for children. You can book a guided tour in the following languages: Finnish, Swedish, English, German, and French. The dialect heard at the dialect guided tours is the local dialect of Eurajoki; a southwestern Finland dialect.

Do you have more questions about the guided tours? E-mail us at matkailuinfo@eurajoki.fi or call +358 (0)44 312 4216, +358 (0)44 312 4266.

Notice! If there are more than two destinations to be visited - one is free. The price for the guided tour depends on the destination.

Vuojoki mansion

The mansion was built in 1836 and designed by the Finnish architect C. L. Engel. It represents the Finnish empire architecture in its unique and magnificent way. The halls of the Vuojoki mansion are used for a wide variety of tourism, conference, and cultural events. In the restored greenhouse, the Orangerie, you find the atmospheric sauna and exotic plants. The picturesque guest rooms are in the west wing of the mansion, and in the east wing you find the auditorium - possibly the most beautiful auditorium in Finland. The mansion is owned by the municipality of Eurajoki and houses the non-profit Vuojoki foundation established for the purpose of conserving the cultural heritage. The mansion is open for visitors all year around - you can travel into the past, eat well at the restaurant Wuojoki, extend your stay and have a hotel room, or take part in a variety of cultural events. Themed tours into the past and present of the mansion can be booked.

Kaljaasi (galeas) Ihana

Come and experience the past on board of the galeas Ihana, a sailing boat built in the authentic, traditional way. Feel the atmosphere of the sea in good company and with tasty food. You can participate in the public sailing alone, with a friend or with your colleagues – you choose. You can also book the whole boat to yourself and spend a memorable anniversary cruise with your invited guests or a relaxed evening cruise with clients, with your workplace team or with your friends. Contact us and we will plan ahead! Kaljaasi Ihana sails in Luvia around the scenic national park of Selkämeri from May to October. You can explore the different sailing options through the booking system on the website of Ihana [www.ihana.fi].

Olkiluoto Visitor Center

At the Olkiluoto Visitors' Center you can explore the Electricity from Uranium exhibition. With a virtual control unit in your hands, you can see how nuclear power plant units produce electricity and welfare for Finland. The Visitors' Center is open every day. You can also easily book a guided group tour to take you around Olkiluoto. A guided tour includes a welcoming coffee, a presentation of the company, a tour of the Electricity from Uranium exhibition, and a visit to the nuclear waste repository. More information can be found on the website www.tvo.fi/vierailulle.

Visitor groups and bookings by phone (Mo - Fri 9 am – 3 pm): +358 (0)2 8381 5221 or by e-mail: vierailut@tvo.fi, www.facebook.com/olkiluodonvierailukeskus.

Please be ready to prove your identity on arrival to Olkiluoto.

Välimaa croft

At Välimaa croft, you can experience the daily life of a crofter's family in the 1930s by doing the work they did. Välimaa croft was built in 1853 as a croft of the mansions Vuojoki and Lavila. Nowadays, the croft is used in tourism and education by guiding visitors through the life and habits in the 1930s. The history is brought to life with the help of volunteering tenants of the croft together with the maids, the hired men, and the children of the croft. You can book the sauna at Välimaa croft, as well as the other premises, for meetings, sauna evenings, and other similar events.

Gustav Adolf church of Eurajoki

The neoclassical wooden church, named after Gustav II Adolf, was completed in 1803. The church is shaped as a cross but has no cross on the roof. The altarpiece is made by an unknown artist, and it portrays the Trinity of God. In the south wing entry, there is a wooden poor man statue from 1985. The oldest of the three bells in the bell tower dates back to 1690. Next to the church you find the parish center Tapuli from 1994, which stores the middle part of the altar cabinet (made in Lübeck in 1440) of the medieval Eurajoki church. Another treasure of the Eurajoki parish is the Biblia Latina from 1480 and the Missale Aboense from 1488.

Irjanne church

By taking a seat on the old and narrow benches in Irjanne church, you can truly feel the pious and dignified atmosphere of the past. Irjanne church is the oldest wooden church in the region of Satakunta, dating back to 1731. The belfry with its baroque tower is from 1758. The church in Irjanne has a long history – it is the third church in the same place as a memorial of the so called sacrificial churches of Ala-Satakunta. The church is popular for marriages, and the Christmas midnight mass is carried out in Irjanne church. In the summer, Irjanne church serves as a road church and on summer Thursdays you can take part in evening church services. The church area also holds a memorial commemorating field marshal Åke Totti, who was an influential person in Eurajoki.

For questions please contact Eurajoki parish, tel. +358 (0)2 868 0021 or the tourist information, tel. +358 (0)44 312 4216, matkailuinfo@eurajoki.fi

The cultural-historical entity of Irjanne

The unique village milieu of Irjanne is a nationally significant cultural-historical environment. The village presents an old road line, a river landscape, a red-ochred church with its onion shaped beltowers, an old loan magazine as a homestead museum, a former pump room, a former dairy as a restaurant, Faltun saw and mill, and the old farm buildings in the center.

Museums in Irjanne

A comprehensive selection of museums with a prominent collection in the cultural landscape of Irjanne. The rural life museum holds one of Finland's largest collections of rural objects. There are farming machines and tools from the time of the traditional agricultural era until the arrival of the combine harvester. There is an extensive fishing department in connection to the rural life museum and a fisherman's home, a so called home of the Munakari boys. In addition to a school museum, there is also a homestead museum and an old pump room. Open upon pre-booking.

Pharmacy museum

In the pharmacy museum, the chemist will show you how a pill is rolled or which powder has eased most of the pains! The Eurajoki pharmacy was founded in 1945. The original pharmacy from the 1940s and 50s has been put together in the museum. The Eurajoki homestead society owns the museum. Open to groups by pre-booking, guide included.

For questions please contact the tourist information, tel. +358 (0)44 312 4216, matkailuinfo@eurajoki.fi

Luvia homestead museum

In 1969, Anna Homeri, with the honorary title of talousneuvoksetar, donated a piece of land with properties to the homestead society Luvia Seora to be used as a museum. The same year the magazine that the municipality had donated was moved to its present place. There is a magazine by the museum used for summer exhibitions and as a school museum.

For questions please contact Arvi Elomaa (president) tel. +358 (0)50 046 4351, Matti Luotola (secretary) tel. +358 (0)40 567 7673 or the tourist information tel. +358 (0)44 312 4216, matkailuinfo@eurajoki.fi

Säppi lighthouse

Säppi lighthouse, designed by architect Axel Hampus Dahlström, was finished in 1873. The light of the lighthouse is 117 feet, or 35 m, above the sea and 29,7 m above the cliffs. Säppi island has a high nature value - it is part of the national programme for the coastal protection and partly a part of the programme for the protection of the grove. Säppi is the ultimate destination for a traveller interested in the maritime nature; the island makes a lasting impression with its rich environment. The bird observatory on the island is rented by the ornithological society of Pori. There are also free mouflon sheep that are fed by the hunting association Reposaaaren metsästysseura ry.

Laitakari marine recreational area

Laitakari offers stunning settings for recreation. It is only a few kilometres from Luvia and all destinations of the area are within walking distance from each other. In Laitakari you get to experience the closeness of the sea and to enjoy the incredibly beautiful seascape. From the beach you can plunge into the water, or in the wintertime you can take a dip in an ice hole and then enjoy a hot sauna. From the dock you can look at the graceful galeas Ihana. Laitakari comes to life in the summer! There are two restaurants, a summer pub with a terrace, and a guest dock. Laitakari is also the passage to the Bothnian Sea – you can go sailing or cruise around the sceneries. You can rent a cayak, and at the magnificent dance hall you can waltz around every summer Saturday. The cultural track of Laitakari harbour reveals the significant history of the sailing ship building, saw-, and shipyard industry.

Kaunissaari and the culture path

Kaunissaari is a popular island for recreational activities and nature excursions – not far from Selkämeri national park. Kaunissaari is one of the most valuable natural areas of the southern Satakunta region. There is a marked culture path on the island, and it presents the vanished sawmill community. Along the path you can get to know many different natural habitats, plants and animals. The path is 14 km long. There are two lean-tos for hikers and campers, four natural fire places, a shelter, and four outhouse toilets. The docks at the south and north beaches are good. By the foundation stones of the sawmill and at the harbour beach you will find the main display boards with the map of Kaunissaari. The steam sawmill of A. Ahlström ran in Kaunissaari during the years 1874 -1923, and up to 300 persons and more lived on the island.

Pinkjärvi

The vast, undivided and uninhabited forest and swamp area of Pinkjärvi opens the door to the rich nature of Satakunta – Pinkjärvi is like a miniature national park. The Pinkjärvi area is part of the Natura 2000 programme, and there are various nature sites in the area. A hiking trail of around 5 kilometres starts from the parking area, next to the information board. The first leg of the trail brings you to the unusual Vuotava double lean-to shelter. Even a bigger group will have space enough in the double lean-to shelter. There is a wonderful sandy beach in front of the Vuotava lean-to shelter – easy for hikers of any size and age to take a dip. You can book a skilled nature guide to get the most out of Pinkjärvi. During the 5 kilometre long tour, the guide will tell you about the area's nature and its history of use. You can enjoy your packed lunch at one of the two natural fire places along the tour. The tour takes approximately 4 hours including breaks.

Eurajoki water tower and the Foucault pendulum

The Eurajoki water tower was completed in the summer of 1985. The volume of the water tank is 900 cubic metres and the tower is 45 metres high. From the observation deck of the water tower you can see the Olkiluoto power plants, the Vuojoki mansion, and the TV mast, among other things. The Foucault pendulum by the water tower - named after the French physicist Léon Foucault and designed by professor Jukka Mattila – can indicate the rotation of the Earth.

Knapernummi fire trenches

The Knapernummi fire trenches, built in 1915-1916, were a part of a series of fortifications that the Russians constructed along the coast of Pohjanlahti during World War I, to safeguard the empire from a German disembarkation. During the years 2002-2003 some parts of the castle constructions were renewed and reconstructed. The fire trenches are found on top of the Knapernummi hill, on Niemenpolku, off Vanha Porintie.
